Mind Reading

Perhaps the young woman to whom you gave your seat in the car the other day is the best stenographer in the city-would be worth more in your office than any other young woman in the city-would be able to intelligently do the things which have long been a burden to you, but which you have not been able to delegate to any one else; but—

Not being a mind-reader you didn't know all this-nor that the young lady is "looking for a better situation;" and as you don't know who she is, you must look for her by proxy—through a Tec-Dee

To ONE man in this city-perhaps the man who stepped on your corn two weeks ago-that house you want to sell is worth at least a hundred dollars more than it is worth to any other man. So that it is worth at least a hundred dollars to you to find the man and to talk business to him; but—

You are not a mind-reader, and you remember little of him except that he weighs at least two hundred pounds and wears shoes that are like iron-so that this little "hundred dollar errand" of finding him must be entrusted to a Tee-

The man who has idle money enough to furnish you that needed new capital walked past your store twice yesterday; the servant who would be worth to your wife twice as much as her present one, leaves her place in the house three blocks from yours next week; the tenant who never broke a lease, and to whom your apartment would be sure to appeal strongly is now looking about for a place like it; the man who would buy that horse and carriage of yours without an hour's parley was "next" to you at your barber's yesterday; but-

You can't read minds, and you go bumping into people all the time who could be useful and helpful to you. So, if these people are worth finding you must give the job to a Tee Dee Want advertisement,
